2016 Research Fair

Research Paper Requirements:

Title Page:
The title page succinctly describes the topic and identifies the author(s). It also includes keywords, journal codes, author’s departmental affiliation, and contact information.

Abstract:
The abstract is a short synopsis (no more than 150 words) of the paper, and the first paragraph is not indented. The abstract is on the title page.

Body:
The text of the paper is a minimum of five pages and not more than 12 pages. The introduction pitches the relevance and contribution, states the thesis, previews the main argument, summarizes the findings and outlines the structure of the paper. The body is divided into numbered sub-sections in the same order outlined in the introduction. The conclusion briefly summarizes the main points of the paper and presents any conclusions drawn from its findings.

Reference:
The reference list is on a page by itself at the end of the document. It should only include the sources actually used within the document. The format should be relevant to your discipline e.g. APA, MLA, CBE, footnote, etc.

Figures and Tables
Number all figures and tables with Arabic numerals in the order in which the figures and tables are first mentioned in the text, regardless of whether a more detailed discussion of the figures and tables occurs later in the text.

Full research papers must be submitted by April 11, 2016 @ 11:59 PM.

Poster Requirements:

Research Paper Poster
Poster should be viewed as the presentation of your research paper. It should be visually appealing and presented on a board that is large enough to clearly display your content.

Demonstration Poster:
Poster should be viewed as the presentation of your submission. It should be visually appealing and presented on a board that is large enough to clearly display your content. If presenting display by computer or other format; ensure that all material is tested and working in Exhibition venue.

Finished posters must be submitted to Exhibition Organizers by April 25, 2016 @ 4:00 PM.